2. The Secretariat of the Department forwards to the P.S.S.C. all applications with the accompanying material. The P.S.S.C. undertakes the evaluation of candidate postgraduate students. The P.S.S.C. examines the respective applications and the documents submitted, draws up a complete list of those who have applied, checks the formal qualifications, rejects candidates who do not meet the criteria decided by the P.A.S. and ranks the candidates by hierarchical order of selection, considering all criteria listed in this Regulation. Subsequently, the P.S.S.C. forwards to the P.A.S. a detailed proposal with the explanatory memorandum for the classification of the candidates.

The T.E.C. consists of the Supervising Professor and two (2) additional members, whose specialty is the same or relevant to the scientific area of the Postgraduate Diploma Thesis and are members of Academic Staff or researchers of grades A, B and C, or instructors of the Postgraduate Programme who hold a Ph.D. Degree.
5. The subject of the postgraduate thesis is included in a special catalogue of postgraduate theses kept at the Secretariat of the Postgraduate Programme. This list must include the names of the candidate, the supervisor and the two other members of T.E.C., the date of approval of the subject by the P.A.S. and the date of conclusion of the procedure, either by acceptance or rejection of the thesis.
6. The postgraduate student is obliged, depending on the progress of the preparation of his postgraduate thesis, to inform the supervisor about any issue.
7. The study and writing of the postgraduate thesis should be completed within the time provided for it, i.e., before the beginning of the examination period of the semester of its preparation. Otherwise, a new evaluation date is set, at least three (3) months later.
8. When the postgraduate thesis is completed, must have a scientifically sufficient number of words and content, and it is submitted in electronic copy (doc or docx or pdf file) to the Secretariat of the Postgraduate Programme, with the agreement of the supervisor that it meets the requirements to be admitted for judgment, after checking the suitability of the content and the case of plagiarism. For the latter, the supervisor uses relevant checker tools provided by the Department. In case of plagiarism, the supervisor informs the Head of the Department in order to implement the applicable legislation. The Secretariat then forwards the Master's thesis to the members of the T.E.C.
9. The submission of the postgraduate dissertation to the T.E.C. should take place at least one (1) month before the examination period of postgraduate dissertations, in order for its members to have sufficient time for the study and submission of comments. The postgraduate thesis is judged by public presentation and examination, upon request of the postgraduate student and the agreement of the supervisor, or referred back, noting the particular reasons for referral and, where appropriate, the possibility of resubmitting it within a specific deadline, at least three (3) months later.
10. The presentations of the postgraduate diploma theses take place on dates set by the P.A.S., following a proposal by the Director of the Postgraduate Programme, in collaboration with the Secretariat of the Department. The invitation and announcement for the public presentation of the postgraduate theses is addressed by the Director of the Postgraduate Programme and includes information about the place and time where it will take place.
11. During the public presentation, the postgraduate student presents to the T.E.C. the main points of his Master's thesis, with its conclusions. The presentation cannot exceed twenty (20) minutes. Then, the members of the T.E.C. submit questions to the student, the total duration of which may not exceed thirty (30) minutes, so that the members of the T.E.C., as well as the rest of the attendees, can form a clear perception of the subject of the work and the student's ability to defend it.

12. After the completion of the public presentation, the postgraduate thesis is evaluated by the T.E.C. in terms of its research work, the scientific methodology for obtaining the results and conclusions, the presentation of a literature review and the usefulness of the findings, considering the manner of written and oral presentation and the answers of the postgraduate student to the questions during the examination. Then, the supervising professor submits to the Secretariat of the Postgraduate Programme the examination report, which includes the grade of each examiner, with a score scale from zero (0) to ten (10), and any comments. The grade of the dissertation is equal to the average of the three grades, taking into account any violation of submission deadlines. The passing grade is at least five (5).
13. In the case of non-passing grade, the T.E.C. sets a new evaluation date, at least three (3) months after the first examination. If the Master's thesis is rejected for a second time, the postgraduate student is expelled from the Postgraduate Programme.
14. It is not possible to change the subject of the student's postgraduate dissertation, except by decision of the P.A.S., after a reasoned recommendation of the supervisor. The change of subject of a postgraduate thesis is in no way a reason to extend the relevant deadlines.
15. In exceptional cases, if there is an objective impossibility or an important reason, it is possible to replace the supervisor or member of the T.E.C., upon the recommendation of the S.C. and a decision of the P.A.S. Indicative reasons for replacement are cases of sabbatical leave, retirement, resignation or for other serious personal reasons. The replacement of a member or members of the T.E.C. is in no way a reason for extending the relevant deadlines.
16. After the successful evaluation of the dissertations and their correction based on any comments of the T.E.C., after the agreement of the supervisor, students upload their dissertation to the digital repository of IHU, which is managed by the Central Library of the University. Upon submission of the postgraduate dissertation, the Library issues the postgraduate student with a relevant certificate, which he submits to the Secretariat as part of his obligations for the completion of studies, as defined in the relevant article. Exceptionally, and for reasons specifically substantiated, following a decision of the P.A.S., parts of postgraduate dissertations containing non-publishable facts and data may not be uploaded to the digital repository of IHU.
